

The Yolo Democrat,
With a Weekly Supplement.
OFFICIAL PAPER OF YOLO COUNTY.

WOODLAND, CAL.
Thursday, June 15th, 1876.

LONG RECESS.—The Banks of San Francisco will be closed several days for the Centennial celebration.

CROWDED OUT.—A letter from Santa Rosa is unavoidably crowded out. It gives an account of a lynch-law hanging scene.

IMPROVING.—The health of Speaker Kerr is improving slowly, as is also that of ex-Speaker Blaine, who was prostrated on Sunday by stroke.

MCDOWELL.—This well known General has been appointed to supercede General Schofield in Command of the Military division of the Pacific Coast.

DOUBLE NUMBER.—The Sonoma Democrat last week issued a double number—sixteen pages—making a very large, readable and creditable paper.

THE CAUSE.—The Alta says the reason for the low price of wool is that dairying is found to pay better than wool raising. We fail to see the application.

NEW PATENTS.—Through Dewey & Co., Patent Agents, San Francisco, we receive the following advance list of U. S. Patents, granted to Pacific Coast inventors, viz: James F. Cogswell, Santa Clara, Cal., life boats; Emanuel Blochman, S. F., Cal., railway carriages; Winder & Shearer, S. F., trade mark, bitters, two cases.

GREENBACKS FOR DUTIES.—A petition which is to be presented to Congress, has been sent to all the States for signatures; it reads as follows: "We the undersigned, citizens of California, do hereby earnestly request the immediate enactment by Congress of a law making the National's currency, commonly known as 'greenbacks,' a legal tender for duties on imports." If this will tend to equalize the currency permanently upon a gold basis, let us have it by all means. The people demand money that will not fluctuate.

NEW SHEET MUSIC.—The following choice selection has just been received from Mr. M. Gray, 105 Kearney Street, San Francisco. "When the Roses Bloom Again," song and chorus, by E. Osborne. "That's Where I'd Like to Be," song and chorus, by Chas. B. Hicks. Waltz Song, "The Three Cousins," by Ad. Dorn. "Letter Song," from Grand Duchesse, by Ad. Dorn. "Maritana," instrumental, by Wallace. Any kind of music or musical instruments can be obtained from Mr. Gray, by sending to the above address.

BLAINE.—This gentleman is extremely unfortunate in having so doubtful a record on which to go before the National Convention. It seems now that he was not only implicated in Arkansas railroad bond swindles, but that the reason why he would not give up the letters he had purloined and about which so much has been said, was that they "implicated him in improper transactions of another kind, one in regard to the Northern Pacific Railroad and another in connection with gun contracts during the war. Poor Blaine.

PRESIDENTIAL.—The N. Y. Graphic's Cincinnati special says the Republican National Convention which was to convene yesterday will not succeed in making a nomination for President before Friday. Blaine, Conkling, Morton and Bristow, are the prominent candidates. The party is so hopelessly corrupt that it makes little difference who is nominated, provided the Democratic Convention to assemble at St. Louis on the 24th, puts up the right man—a real live Reformer, in whom the people have confidence. Such an one will beat any man the Radicals may name.

ANOTHER FAILURE.—Goaded to desperation by recent exposures of defalcation, malfeasance and other high crimes in office, the Administration party are making frantic efforts to blacken the reputation of Democratic officers, hoping thereby to have something in the way of an offset to their palliation of the glaring exposures made and positive corruption proven and fastened upon scores of Republicans in high official positions. Since the case of Tweed, however, (who was brought to justice by Democrats,) they labor in vain. The latest attempt and signal failure in this direction, is the attempt to smear the character of Speaker Kerr, by one Harney, who it seems swore to a falsehood in order to save himself. As the New York Tribune puts it: "In its original form the charge that Mr. Kerr actually took the money from Harney was not distinctly made, and it is not difficult to understand how Harney, without intending to do the Speaker any real harm, may have gone about hinting, menacing, and half-uttering disclosures, in the hope of frightening investigations away from the Appraiser's office, until the scandal of his creation got beyond his control, and he found to his dismay that it was no longer Mr. Kerr's reputation that was at stake, nor Mr. Darling's, but his own. Summoned to Washington, he was driven to the dilemma of either making oath to the bribery of the Speaker or confessing that he had robbed Greene, slandered Mr. Kerr, and attempted to blackmail a committee of Congress; and Mr. Harney seems to have hesitated some time before he made up his mind which horn to choose."

Our Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C., June 24, 1876.
THE CINCINNATI NOMINEE.

EDITOR YOLO DEMOCRAT.—Now that Blaine's candidacy is out of the question, the Republicans are in a quandary. Only a very small proportion of the "regulars" want Bristow at any price, as he is not considered sufficiently loyal. Morton has rendered the party excellent service by warring the blood-stained under garment; and his radicalism is unquestioned. But he is not personally popular, and he is considered, even by many of his friends, to be unavailable as a candidate. The Southern Republicans would, of course, vote solidly for him; but he would be a miserable failure before the people of the North and West. Conkling is by no means a favorite; but the strong probability is that he will get the nomination. The Republican leaders believe that the candidate of neither party that gets the 35 electoral votes of New York next November, will be the 39th President of the United States. They know that the candidate of neither party can reasonably hope to be elected without the vote of New York. They know that leading Democrats from one end of the country to the other, have got to understand that fact, and are, one after another, abandoning their respective favorites, and frankly avowing their preference, under the circumstances, for Samuel J. Tilden, the present Democratic Governor of New York, and the strongest man in the State of either party. Tilden's strength is so great that he was elected by a majority of more than 100,000 votes over the Republican candidate, Governor Dix, who had been elected two years before by a majority of more than 50,000 votes, and was by all odds, the best and the most popular Republican Governor the State ever had. Against a man who thus changed more than 100,000 votes in his favor, while running against an opponent of rare ability and unexceptionable character, it will be indispensable to any show of success for the Republicans that they nominate that man of their party who has the most strength in New York. Conkling has been for years dispensing Federal favors all over the State; and if he has not made many friends, he has, at least, many political adherents. The influence of the Administration would also be freely used in his favor; and, altogether, he is perhaps the best man the Republicans could nominate with reference to carrying the Empire State. It has been ascertained here that neither Governor Tilden nor any of his friends had any knowledge whatever of the circular recently sent out by an advertising agency, offering to pay for the publication of newspaper extracts favoring Tilden's nomination. The circulars were sent to many papers known to be opposed to Governor Tilden; and the firm of advertising agents, of which that radical of radical Republicans, Petroleum V. Nasby, is a member, declines to say who employed them, or whether their employers are Republicans or Democrats.

SPEAKER KERR.—The country is watching with intense interest the course of the House Committee which is investigating the charge preferred against Mr. Kerr. The Republicans hope to see the Democratic members of the Committee and of the House speak and act with partiality toward Mr. Kerr, and would be delighted to see the Democratic press of the country prejudice the case, abuse the witness Harney, and affirm it to be impossible that Mr. Kerr could have committed the crime and blunder with which he is charged. I am happy to be able to say, however, that all the leading Democrats here, in and out of Congress, abstain from expressing an opinion on Mr. Kerr's guilt or innocence. They all, including Mr. Kerr's friends say, "The House is investigating the conduct of public men, irrespective of party." We are, of course, sorry to see Mr. Kerr arraigned; but duty to the Democratic party, and a still higher duty to the country require from the Democratic House an investigation so conducted that it will stand the strictest scrutiny. If Mr. Kerr is found guilty, the Committee must report, unequivocally. If the evidence turns out to be conflicting, so that they do not know how to decide, they must publish the evidence in full that the people may judge for themselves. Above all, they must not follow in the wake of the Republicans, and bully the witnesses against Mr. Kerr. (He is completely exonerated.) It is gratifying to be able to record that the Democratic press of the country is, as a general thing, pursuing the proper course. The most influential Democratic papers in the country say, substantially, in regard to Kerr's case, "Let us have the facts, no matter who is in it." And that is right. All the exposures of Congress and the manifold rascalties of the Republicans will go for nothing—will count against us—if we show the slightest disposition to exempt guilty men of our party.

A PARAGRAPH WORTH READING.—In his remarks in the Senate, sitting as a Court of Impeachment, yesterday, Matt Carpenter, the senior counsel for Belknap, was as usual impertinent and disrespectful to the members of the Court, indirectly charging them with the intention of not according to his client a fair trial. Many Senators sat uneasily under his insinuations; and Judge Thurman, of Ohio, was noticeably annoyed. Just at the close of the proceedings, Judge Thurman, in the course of a few remarks, said, pointing toward Carpenter, "The Senate has been treated with scant respect, and the law with less." Seeing that the Judge was annoyed, Carpenter walked over, and putting one hand good-naturedly on Thurman's shoulder, extended the other for a shake, at the same time saying something inaudible to persons in the galleries. Thurman refused to extend his hand; but Carpenter kept on talking, and finally, with gentle force secured possession of it and shook it heartily. Thurman was evidently ill angry, and, withdrawing his hand, began talking and gestulating earnestly, frequently bringing his fist down on his desk in a very emphatic manner. Carpenter finally turned and spoke to Senator Norwell, of Georgia, and subsequently returned to Thurman, and placing his hand on his (Thurman's) shoulder, again began talking pleasantly. Thurman rather gruffly shook it off, and Carpenter, evidently despairing of mollifying him, turned away. This little scene was witnessed with a good deal of interest from the reporters' gallery.

De Profundis.

You think I love it? If this nervous hand Could gain immortal strength, this very hour
I'd sweep the selfish passion from the land,
And crush the blighting, maddening, nightmare power.
Yes, now, with this latest dyl's breath,
I'll curse the thing that drags men down to death.
Love it? I think it! Yet I drink and drink,
And hate my bondage with a loathly hate,
And hate myself as through the town I sink.
The pledge? No! Too late to make it now,
No pledge! I've tried it twice—a waste of breath.
Too late! There's no release for me but death.
It's bad enough to drink; but not to drink!
Both such a train of ghastly horrors wake
As in one hour would leave me dead, I think;
Ah, keep away, ye fiends for pig's sake!
The very thought of them affects my brain;
My end will be when they shall come again.
Love run? I'd love to hold my head up high
And breathe God's air a free and fearless man.
And look with undimmed eyes on earth and sky.
With steady nerve to do and head to plan;
I'd love to grapple trials as they come,
In manly fashion, brave and strong. Love run!
If only I could come into some land Where no drink is, God knows how willing I'd fight those dreadful torments of the damned!
That clutch the soul of him who would be free!
But marshaling up those grisly shapes of woe,
To fall again, as twice before? No, no!
Ah, if I might have known how it would be,
In these old days so wild and gay,
When first I drank, I'd never have
How easy then to put the cup away!
A mother's hope, a father's love, I'll tell;
Now see me trembling—ha! Those eyes again!

SHERIFF'S OFFICE, SACRAMENTO,
September 21st, 1875.
Mr. J. ENRIGHT—Dear Sir:—The Straw Burning Engine I bought of you, and which was used in Yolo County, has given us perfect satisfaction. It is every day doing its work
We have had no difficulty in generating all the steam required, and the amount of power developed is such that we have been able to thresh more than 100 bushels of wheat and farmers, have come to see it run, and all express themselves highly pleased. The opinion of all was, that it is just what we need, being safe and economical.
H. M. LARUE.

ROCK SOAP!
ROCK SOAP is a natural product, possessing most marvelous cleansing and cosmetic properties. Besides other soap-like properties, it contains no alkali, which is more powerfully destructive than most Alkaline Soaps. Rock Soap is ascertained to be entirely free from any deleterious matter, and is much safer on account of fire, than a wood burning soap. Many persons and householders, have come to see it run, and all express themselves highly pleased. The opinion of all was, that it is just what we need, being safe and economical.
H. M. LARUE.

For Household Purposes.
It cleans kitchen utensils, glass, and tinware; polishes gold and silver; removes oil and grease from tables and floors. It is a great saving of time and labor.
Washing Powder.
It is unrivaled for Washing Clothes. It is not an alkali, but it softens the water, which the dirt, and makes washing less laborious;
and leaves the clothes clean, white, without any of the injurious effects attending the use of soda and washing powder, which all contain more or less caustic properties.
It is guaranteed not to injure in the least degree the finest fabrics, and it will save half the quantity of soap usually used. It saves an enormous waste in soap, and wear and tear in clothes.

For Toilet and Bath.
Rock Soap possesses remarkable cosmetic properties, without any deleterious effect upon the skin. It is perfectly harmless, and gives a vigorous and healthy complexion.
It restores the freshness and bloom of youth in a manner which is marvelous.
It is used with a brilliant result, and having an immense sale, it sells itself. See quotations.
